

Policy and planning chairman's report

October 2107

Good afternoon and welcome to today's meeting.

As you will have noted we have a relatively light schedule for today's meeting, I hope that you are all satisfied with the report on the "whistle blowing policy", it is nice to know that we have appropriate policies in place for both the protection of our organisation and our staff. I am unsure whether it is the place of this committee to delve further into this space, so advice from staff would be welcome , and if it is whether or not any further development of our policy is appropriate or not.

I would also like to remind committee members of the potential to be involved in next week's "conservation week" events. These should be well worth the effort if you have a couple of spare hours available in your diary on the appropriate days and may well be a niche opportunity to engage with different sectors within our community.

Angus Gordon.

Chair PP.
